

MACVICTOR ERUKPME BIOGRAPHY

My name is Macvictor Erukpeme, from Imo state Nigeria, an African born into a Catholic family of six.

I am fluent in English and Igbo, which is my native language.

I obtained my high School diploma from Christ the King College Abuja Nigeria, a school managed by the Marist Brothers of Schools in Nigeria where I was honored with an award of The Most Disciplined and well-behaved student of the class of 2011.

I went ahead to pursue my undergraduate degree at Bells University of Technology Ogun state, Nigeria where I obtained my Bachelors degree in Electrical and Electronics Engineering (BEng.).

Presently, I am currently enrolled in the Graduate program at Western Illinois University Macomb Illinois, studying to obtain a masters degree in Engineering Technology

However, my love for the Catholic faith can be elated back to my elementary school days when I was invested into the Mass servers/Altar boys association and since then I have not relented because nearer to the altar is nearer to God as the altar servers always say.

The zeal for the work of God got me into trying to become a Catholic Priest which did not come through. However, I believe everyone is called to serve God in different ways.

I am humbled by this offer given to me by the Church to serve as a Liturgical Student Leader at St. Francis of Assisi Newman Center. This opportunity which will continually bring me nearer to the altar is a sure opportunity again to serve God better.

I hope, by God's grace that I will add value to the church of God as I carry out this duty.
